LIFE CYCLE MANAGEMENT in Engineering, Medicine and Natural Sciences

Tokyo
June 3-5 2016

The Tokyo Office of the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD Tokyo) announces the International Conference on LIFE CYCLE MANAGEMENT in Engineering, Medicine and Natural Sciences. Product Lifecycle Management (PLM) and the sustainable management of human lifecycle is one of the core issues of contemporary science and research. East Asian scientists from the fields of Engineering, Medicine and Life Sciences, including young scientists, who experienced or pursue academic ties with German universities will meet for the first time in Japan to exchange views on relevant aspects and perspectives of lifecycle management with Japanese and German colleagues. The symposium presents a forum for workshop presentations, plenary speeches and discussions. All scientists, researchers and students from the fields of engineering, medicine and natural science are welcome to join the symposium. Conference language will be English. Texts will be provided in Japanese.

3-5 June 2016 at DAAD (Tokyo, Minato-ku, Akasaka 7-5-56) and
Tsukuba Daigaku (Tokyo Campus, Bunkyo 3 Chome-29-1 Otsuka)
Participation is free, application required: daad-tokyo@daadjp.com (03-3582-5962)
